SPACE TO GROW: PLANTERS

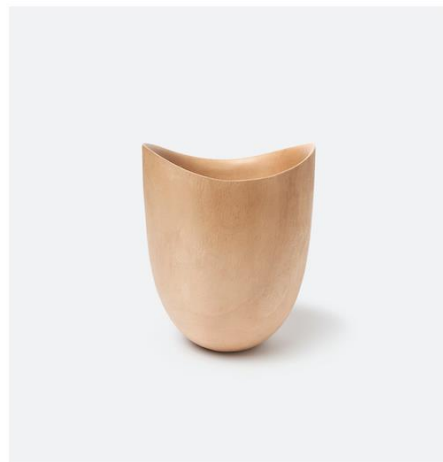

06/22/2020

As indoor and outdoor spaces continue to blend, planters offer a stylish accent for natural design elements.

The Faceted banded bronze container from Global Views is made from porcelain and looks great as a planter, an umbrella stand, or a fashionable storage container. Available in three sizes. www.globalviews.com

Available in two versatile sizes, the Kovit vase from Made Goods is a smooth, naturally-finished mango wood vase with a curved base and wide, contoured opening. www.madegoods.com

Napa Home & Garden's Woven dry basket planter is made up of a rattan planter tightly woven around grower's pots. The plastic pot helps the weave retain shape while elevating the rattan off the ground. www.napahomeandgarden.com

Crafted from a resin composite, the Harvest vase in light grey from Phillips Collection has the look of stone with the durability of resin, bringing a handmade look with a modern finish. www.phillipscollection.com

Designed by Landscape Architect Ive Haugeland for Loll Designs, Tessellate planters make a design statement. This collection features four styles of varying heights and widths, giving one the creativity to play with shape and color. www.lolldesigns.com

The Aspect planter series from Kornegay, a Landscape Forms company, is a collection of four-sided cast concrete landscape containers with minimal, architectural style and a simple shadow line at the base. www.kornegaydesign.com

With a grey ombre finish and classic drum shape, the concrete Ingall planter from Four Hands makes for a naturally stylish means of displaying favorite plants indoors or out. www.fourhands.com

Dôme Deco's Aluminum S, V3-A5 planter in black measures 14 inches in diameter by 23 inches high. Also available in brown. www.domedeco.us
